PHYSICIAN TESTIFIES IN THE MARTIN CASE

In the calf of his left leg and particles of metal above the right ankle. Other than the evidence furnished by Dr. Osgood, who was permitted to testify in the midst of another line of evidence this afternoon because of his professional duties, the day's sessions of the case brought forth nothing of special importance save the introduction of the many blackmail letters and samples of Martin's handwriting into the evidence. All of the letters received by four victims of the black-mailers during the reign of terror extending over a period of three years, a total of fourteen, were introduced by means of witnesses who testified to having come into possession of the communications either direct from the post-office service or through other persons.

The persons who testified to having received the blackmail letters brought into the trial of the present case, together with the number introduced by them, are Leroy Eccles, two; Royal Eccles, three; Mrs. Florence Bristol, four; H. E. Bristol, one; R. B. Porter, introducing a letter addressed to Mrs. Thomas D. Dee, one, and George W. Culver, three. All of the letters, together with a number of the original envelopes in which they were contained when received, are fastened between glass plates which have been bound securely together with tape. The entire exhibit of blackmail letters comprises an exhibit of twenty-five plates, each of which was separately introduced in the evidence.

Letters Are Identified.
Several hours were consumed in the inspection of the exhibits by the witnesses, who were required to identify each one as a letter he had received and testify that the letter was, so far as the general writing is concerned, in the same condition as when received. In addition to these there were several specimens of Martin's handwriting which were also introduced in the evidence and properly identified by means of witnesses. The prosecution had not completed its introduction of this sort of evidence when Dr. Osgood was permitted to take the stand during the afternoon session.

According to the attorneys for the state, handwriting evidence probably will be the important feature of the Martin trial for at least several days. The state's witness for the prosecution in this respect is Theodore Kytka, the San Francisco handwriting expert, who has arrived in the city in connection with this case. He probably will be placed upon the stand tomorrow, and his enlarged specimens have already been attached to a large rack constructed in the courtroom for that special purpose.

Witnesses on Stand.
The complete list of witnesses who testified today included Postoffice Inspector Ralph Smith, who was recalled this morning after appearing in the case for the first time yesterday; City Physician Walter E. Whalen, Sheriff T. A. DeVine, Seth Thomas, Jed Abbott, Fire Chief A. B. Canfield, George W. Parlow, Chief of Police W. I. Norton, George W. Culver and Dr. Osgood.

The first direct testimony submitted by Dr. Osgood was in substance the same as that which he introduced in the examination of the wounds on the legs at police headquarters during the evening of December 4, 1913, the time of his arrest. The physician declared that in his opinion the scars were not the result of bolts, as Martin had told other persons, and also told the doctor. The wounds in Martin's legs are described as being caused by gunshot, the wounds in the calf of his leg was described as being caused by a bullet.

Photographs Taken.
On the morning following this examination, Dr. Osgood testified that he took two X-ray photographs of each of Martin's legs and at the points where the wounds appeared. After describing the exact manner in which the photos were made, the witness introduced the plates, and these were later introduced in evidence. Although Attorney Christensen interposed an objection to this, which will be considered upon the state's ability to connect it up directly with the shooting of Detective Edwards. The contention is made that the photographic evidence regarding the wounds in Martin's legs are immaterial to the case at present.

After testifying that in his opinion the wounds were caused by gunshot, the physician explained the photographs in detail. He said that the plates made from the left leg showed the presence of a round metal object, which was a foreign substance. Those of the right leg, he said, showed particles of metal ranging in size from the head of a pin to half an inch, which apparently continued through the flesh from one surface to the other for a distance of more than half an inch. He said that it was quite possible and altogether probable that a leaden bullet should scatter particles in passing through the tissues of flesh. In reply to questions put by Attorney E. O. Leatherwood, Dr. Osgood said that the wounds appeared to be from three to four weeks old at the time he examined them. When asked if he had attended a patient who had suffered from gunshot wounds that length of time, the witness said he had, and did not object to mentioning his name. The objection of Attorney Christensen was overruled by the court, but the defendant's counsel said he would not have objected had he known that Dr. Osgood was going to mention David Edwards.

Healing of Wounds.
In the cross-examination, so far as it proceeded before the admission of the court for the day, Attorney Christensen attempted to bring out that it was possible for the size of objects appearing on X-ray photographic plates by means of scratching or altering the surface covering the glass. Dr. Osgood admitted that the size of objects appearing on X-ray photographic plates could be made by retouching, but insisted that almost any person could detect the alterations of the plate.

Statements of Martin.
Martin told the officers at police headquarters, according to Smith, that he had not attended a cock fight on the Sunday afternoon because he had spent the day at his uncle's house. The authorities obtained a search warrant for him at a time later. According to his own testimony, Smith asked Martin how his injury regarding the bullet in the calf of his leg was getting along. The defendant replied that he had cut it off a few days previous.

Testifies as to Wounds.
City Physician Whalen's entire testimony was in regard to his examination of the wounds on Martin's legs. His opinion the scars were not the result of bolts. Sheriff T. A. DeVine was called to the stand for the purpose of introducing another sample of the defendant's handwriting made at the instigation of Chief of Police W. I. Norton.

In a complete and sworn short-handled ticket signed by "J. H. Murray," the state encountered its first unwilling witness. Thomas was present when the ticket was made, but refused to identify Martin as the man who signed it. Jed Abbott, a claim agent for the Oregon Short Line railroad, testified that the defendant had signed a manifest of household goods, which was introduced as evidence. One communication and a check for $3 in connection with Martin's membership in the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen were likewise introduced in evidence. The identification by Fire Chief A. B. Canfield, who is secretary of the local branch of the Brotherhood, and Phil Norton were the necessary witnesses in getting a personal record letter from the Southern Pacific company file into the evidence.

Other Witnesses Called.
Six other witnesses for the state, including Leroy and Royal Eccles, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Bristol, R. B. Porter and George W. Culver, testified in rapid succession and briefly regarding blackmail letters received. All but one of these witnesses required of these witnesses were their statements that the letters had come into their possession, and that the communications were in the same condition as received. The list of letters thus entering into the evidence not only includes those received prior to the hearing up to the Seventeenth street affair, but also those in connection with the Canyon road delivery of $1000 and the robbery of the Canyon road train occurring in December, 1911, and January, 1912.
